We would like to thank all of the authors who participated in the review process and trusted us with their work. We are deeply appreciative of our reviewers, who provided constructive reviews and added a level of quality for which this journal and its affiliated groups are known. We would also like to thank the GSA Publications Director, Stacey Meeker, the chair of the 2010 CLIC GSA at UCLA conference, Anna Corwin, the chair of the 2009 LISO at UCSB conference, Ingrid Li, former Crossroads associates, Satomi Kuroshima and Tanya Romaniuk, and the Berkeley Electronic Press staff, especially Michael Cobb, for guidance, suggestions and/or training during the publication process. Additionally, we are grateful to Sarah Jean Johnson for initiating the interview in this volume and to Frederick Erickson for providing us with this jewel just before his retirement. As the chief editor, I would especially like to thank the editors, who have volunteered their creativity, good cheer, good judgment and valuable time for over a year to produce this volume. Finally, I would like to thank the remaining contributors and editorial team members, who used their skills and talents to help ensure that the final product was of the highest quality.
