

Introducing the Cognitive Systems Institute Group

Jim Spohrer

IBM

Abstract: The Cognitive Systems Institute Group (CSIG) is a relatively new initiative of IBM Global University Programs to better link IBMers and the cognitive systems community around grand challenge problems in cognitive science and artificial intelligence. For example, the mission of the CSIG is to augment and scale human expertise with cognitive assistants for all occupations in smart service systems. This poster will introduce CSIG and invite the CogSci community to help shape its evolution.
