For a long time, the editors of Mester have desired to dedicate one issue each year to articles focusing on a single topic. Professor Joaquín Gimeno Casalduero's seminar on Los Milagros de Nuestra Señora by Gonzalo de Berceo, given during the fall quarter of 1987, provided us with the opportunity to initiate this policy. The first four articles presented are the product of this seminar. These articles were the catalyst for our current issue dedicated to medieval literature of the Iberian peninsula.

We would like to thank all those who so readily and enthusiastically participated in this issue. In particular, we would like to thank Professor Gimeno Casalduero whose generosity in sharing his knowledge and constant support is acknowledged by his students and the editors of Mester alike.
