

GALLERY I

Rob Wilson*

Women in the big camp coming back from prayer at the Cannon Ball River.

* Rob Wilson is a photographer who traveled to Standing Rock, North Dakota and stayed for many months to photograph the Water Protectors, Standing Rock, and the historic moment it represented.

© 2017 Rob Wilson. All rights reserved.

“Happi” American Horse attaching himself to an excavator at the construction site of the Dakota Access Pipeline on 31 August 2016.

Crossing the river to the front line on Thanksgiving.

Water Protectors on Thanksgiving morning in Morton County.

Police going into the Tepees setup in the path of the Dakota Access Pipeline.

Water Protectors on the front line on Thanksgiving on treaty land.