NATIONAL BLACK LAW JOURNAL CONSORTIUM AGREEMENTS

The National Black Law Journal encourages Black students at other law schools to publish single issues of the Journal. By entering into a consortium agreement with the National Board at the UCLA School of Law, students have the opportunity to form an editorial staff, solicit articles and book reviews, edit manuscripts, conduct interviews for profiles, and perform other tasks required for production of the Journal. Through these consortium agreements, the Journal is infused with new perspectives, and fulfills its goal of being a national legal forum. If members of your school would like to be a part of the Journal experience, please contact the National Editor-in-Chief of the National Black Law Journal.
