Editor Biographies

Joseph Cumming is a Philosophy major who graduated from UCSD in 2022. He is now attending law school at UCI.

Elliott Legaspi is a fourth-year with a double major in Political Science and Psychology. He is part of the Research and Development team for the Community Benefit Network, creating alternatives to incarceration through educational and service programs in Los Angeles county. He plans on attending law school to pursue a career in criminal justice.

Clara Pham is a second-year History student at UCSD. In addition to her involvement with the UCSD Undergraduate Law Review, she is the Lead Copy Editor for the independent student newspaper The Triton, Vice President of the Undergraduate History Network, and tutor with School on Wheels. She plans to attend law school and is primarily interested in business and civil law.

Sparky Mitra is a UCSD student studying bioengineering. She has been involved in multiple political and STEM research initiatives and projects throughout her high school and college career that have been recognized by political figures and community members alike. She is currently UCSD's flagship newspaper's Opinion Editor while holding positions in other pre-professional and advocacy organizations. Her efforts have culminated in her advocacy work at OTTA United and College Democrats, and her genetic engineering/synthetic biology work at the J. Craig Venter Institute. Additionally she actively engages with organizers in California and her home state of Texas, building rallying cries behind causes that matter to her and the communities around her.

Blake Johnson is a third-year Aerospace Engineering major and is a Boeing-IDEA Scholar in the Jacobs School of Engineering. He is minoring in Political Science and English.

Mykalle Tran is a third-year student majoring in Political Science at UCSD. She plans to attend law school in the near future and is interested in advocating for human rights and civil liberties. She is also interested in studying family law. She is grateful to have had the opportunity to work with such hardworking and inspiring people who make up the Undergraduate Law Review and would like to thank her writer, Calvin Manahan, for working with her.

Rishabh Raj is a third-year student at UCSD studying political science with a minor in Law and Society and plans on attending law school. This is his 2nd year as part of UCSD's Undergraduate Law Review and his 1st year as an Editor. He is also currently a member of UCSD's Ethics Bowl team as well as its Moot Court team. He would like to thank his writer, Tracy, for an amazing experience in working on this article.

Valentina Du Pond is a third-year with senior standing at UCSD majoring in Political Science with a focus in public law. Her major interests include constitutional law, civil liberties, and entertainment law.
