

EDITORIAL NOTE

The Editors of UFAHAMU would like to encourage your response to any of our articles or to the journal as a whole. We very much need this kind of continuing exchange to keep us abreast of the topical and controversial issues concerning Africa and Afro-America today.

We are particularly interested in receiving your direct or indirect responses to the October, 1970 African Studies Association Conference in Boston, and your comments on whether or not there has been any change in the structure of African Studies in the United States since the 1969 "Montreal upheavals".

All comments are welcome and will be considered for publication, from one-word exclamations, to more lengthy responses which might (as in Ralph Austen's letter in this issue) prove suitable for an A Propos.

Let us hear from you.
