Ufahamu has been an important forum for the publication of materials addressing Africa and the African Diaspora for more than 30 years. Named after the Swahili word for comprehension, understanding or being, UFAHAMU is committed to views about social issues, addressing both the general reader and the scholar. Since its establishment in 1970, UFAHAMU continues to challenge and correct misconceptions about Africa, thereby creating relevant criteria for African Studies. It publishes material supportive of the African revolution and socially significant works of African history, politics, economics, sociology, anthropology, law, planning and development, literature and other topics about the continent and the African Diaspora.

We encourage our readers to submit poetry, fiction, scholarly articles, commentaries, political or economic analyses, review articles and artwork to the Editors-in-Chief. You may send these submissions to Ufahamu at the above email address. Please no hard copies. If you have any further questions, you may contact the editors at ufahamu@gmail.com or access our website at: <http://www.international.ucla.edu/africa/ufahamu/>.

Since we publish three issues per year, we continuously accept submissions. Though we occasionally publish special, thematic issues, most issues treat a broad range of topics. So, please, feel free to submit all of your African-related work.

CALL FOR PAPERS
(De)Constructing Urbanities: Opportunities and Challenges in African Cities

UFAHAMU: A Journal of African Studies

To follow the 2008 UCLA African Activist Association Conference, entitled “(De)Constructing Urbanities: Opportunities and Challenges in African Cities”, UFAHAMU is publishing a special issue that will include work presented at the conference. In line with the theme of the conference, UFAHAMU is actively seeking submissions that encourage discourse on the challenges and opportunities facing Africans in the post-colonial context of urbanization and examine new configurations of African cities. The special issue is also open to submissions beyond the conference agenda. Submissions should not be limited to scholarly articles, but can also include political-economic analysis, commentaries, film and book reviews, short fiction, and poetry.

Submissions are due no later than Friday, August 1, 2008. Submissions should be no more than 30 pages, clearly typed, double-spaced, and, where appropriate, with footnotes on separate page(s). Electronic submissions only please, submitted at ufahamu@gmail.com.

The Editorial Board reserves the right to edit any manuscript to meet the objectives of the journal. Along with the submissions, authors are expected to email a brief biographical note, including position, academic affiliation and recent significant publications, etc. All correspondence should be addressed to the Editor-in-Chief via email at ufahamu@gmail.com.
